The latest Ashcroft poll reveals Labour Party Leader Ed Miliband has managed a massive turnaround to become the most popular UK political leader and predicts he will command a majority even greater than the total secured by Tony Blair in the 1997 general election.

This complete reversal in fortune has followed an intervention to make him appear even more like a normal family man and has left all the opposition parties in complete disarray.

Even the wipe-out predicted in Scotlandshire has been reversed placing the SNP genie firmly back in the bottle.

Mr Miliband's campaign team silenced all critics and comedians when the much maligned second kitchen in his £2m mansion house home was transformed into a simple spare room. Builders were brought in to tear out the cheap kitchen and rebrand it into a contemporary spare room that any normal citizen would be happy to have in their own home.
